

All about Children's Rights

What is the UNCRC?

UNCRC is the United Nations Convention on the rights of a child.

What are Children's Rights?

Children and anyone under the age of 18, even in different countries, should have their rights met.

Everyone rich and poor should have an access to each one of the rights.

CONVENTION
ON THE RIGHTS OF THE CHILD

Children's Rights

- In our school, St Columba's we are learning about Children's Rights.
- We have been finding out how we have our Rights met.

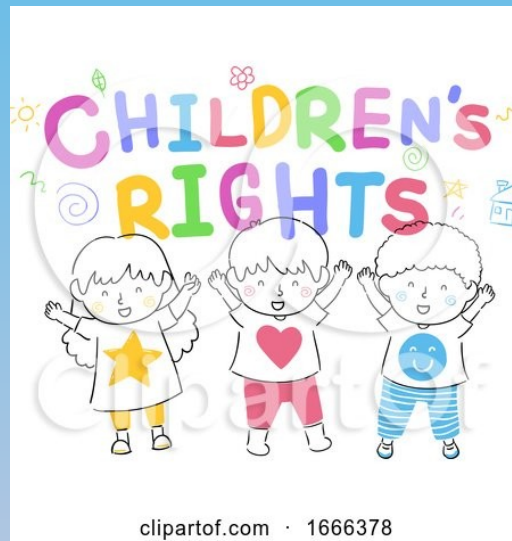

Children's Rights around the World

- Unfortunately some children around the world do not have access to all 54 rights but St Columba's are trying to change this by donating money to charities such as CAFOD.

What rights do children have?

- Children have the right to voice their opinions (article 13)
- Children in every country should have the right for clean water (article 27)

- Children have the right to an education and this education should teach them how to use their talents!
